

frank nordby

From: "frank nordby" <franknordby@raleysexposed.com>
To: "Warren Millar" <wmillar@yubacourts.org>
Sent: Thursday, February 02, 2006 6:49 PM
Subject: Re: My remembrances of Charles Nordby

Hello Warren, That is great that you found yourself in a line of work outside of supermarkets and into other areas where you could take advantage of your talents. Insurance is just wreaking with fraud too.

His fraud lawsuit against Raley's was met with more fraud by Raley's. Raley's today is able to rely on the dishonesty of their Attorney's in order to avoid having to answer to their fraud. My dad found out that the courts can be used by those with money in order to have Judges bend over backwards for them. His case was in an appeal, before the appeals court, at the time he passed away. Raley's attorney's made such terrible errors that the two (2) attorney's working for this law firm left shortly after my dad's case. There was an improper service involved in this case which put Joyce Raley's entire fortune on a default judgment. Raley's top notch attorney's failed to properly serve my dad in thirty (30) days after he filed his complaint which created a default judgment. They even created a fraud within the court in trying to cover up their improper service and their default judgment. And Judge Joe Gray became a willing participant of this fraud. That is where the case was when my dad passed away and that is where it is today.

Before my dad passed away, we determined that Chuck Collings and Jim Teel were involved in other fraudulent acts during the time they purchased a chain of stores in Nevada called Eagle Thrifty. And if you were hired by my dad in 1973 you were aware of this chain of stores. But the purchase was just a big sham designed to strip a company of their money and let the company go bankrupt. They changed their intentions after they hired my dad and he was able to quickly show Raley's where their problems were and why they were losing so much money in their operation. We believe Tom Raley was never aware of the Eagle Thrifty purchase. The man never even heard of my dad and my dad was hired around the same time as when they purchased this chain of stores...It is a very interesting story. Unfortunately though, the family of Charles Nordby will never know all the facts concerning Charles Nordby's relationship with Raley's. We were hoping through discovery in his fraud case we would have more of the facts.

To the news media, it is just a big can of worms that nobody wants to see opened. But the good news is that Charles Nordby was able to confront them before he passed away. And this was only accomplished because Raley's published a history book and gave it to all of their employees as a Christmas gift. It also turned out this history book was a Christmas gift to Charles Nordby too because he was able to see just how dishonest they were then and how dishonest they still are today. My dad died a man with integrity. When they pass away, they die being the frauds that they have always been.

Thanks Warren for your emails. My dad was buried in the Fair Oaks Cemetary (in Fair Oaks) off if New York Avenue. Thank you for your interest. I give you a thanks from my family and a thanks from my dad.

Frank

P.S. You asked about whether any of Charles Nordby's children were involved in loss prevention. I worked with my dad, after he left Raley's in 1976, for a supermarket chain in Reno where I was able to see first hand just how sharp he was in his field and how smart he was in the grocery business. It still saddens me today to think he was cheated by those he trusted to be honest with him.

----- Original Message -----

From: Warren Millar
To: frank nordby
Sent: Thursday, February 02, 2006 2:16 PM
Subject: RE: My remembrances of Charles Nordby

Dear Frank:

Thank you kindly for your response! Essentially, working with your father helped prepare me to obtain by private investigators license in 1983 where I continued loss prevention work until 1989. Thereafter, I expanded into financial and insurance fraud investigations. Was your father able to prevail in the law suit you mentioned? As I recall, Charles had ten children, have any entered into the loss prevention field? Could you please tell me where he is buried so I can pay my respects? Thank you! Warren

-----Original Message-----

From: frank nordby [mailto:franknordby@raleysExposed.com]
Sent: Thursday, February 02, 2006 1:09 PM
To: Warren Millar
Subject: Re: My remembrances of Charles Nordby

Thanks Warren for your response. I wasn't around my dad when he worked for Raley's, but I do vaguely remember him mentioning your name after he left Raley's. My site is just one way for me to remind Raley's of the fraud that they committed against my dad and too cowardly for them to face my dad in his lawsuit against them. My site may be offensive to some who view it but I guess it can be looked upon as my free speech expression. I am glad you were able to be used by my dad during one of his many retail experiences. I am also glad you found a way to escape loss prevention and the supermarket industry. I kind of feel that the biggest thieves in the supermarket industry are those who run the supermarkets. My dad was never happy doing that kind of work, however, he was good doing it.

Thanks again Warren for your email.
Frank

----- Original Message -----

From: Warren Millar
To: franknordby@raleysExposed.com
Sent: Thursday, February 02, 2006 12:29 PM
Subject: My remembrances of Charles Nordby

Dear Frank:

I just found this website; first time visitor. I last saw your father in approximately 1991, and was just informed of your father's passing through your website. I can't tell you how much my life was profoundly changed after Charles hired me as the first security agent for Raley's in 1973. I am very saddened to hear of his passing, regretfully, we had a falling out and I lost touch. I owe a debt of gratitude to your father I can never repay. He was my mentor that I faithfully believed in. I have not read through the website; however, I believe I am the only loss prevention agent who can attest to many of his successes, for which I lived through and was apart of. I am no longer in the loss prevention nor supermarket industry; however, I will never forget Charles and miss him to this day. If there is anything I can provide you with, please contact me. Thank you. Warren Millar

My cell phone number is (530) 301-2811; home is (530) 675-2303.

Confidentiality Notice: This email and any attachments are confidential and intended solely for the person or entity to whom they are addressed. This information may also be legally privileged. If you received this email in error, any review, retransmission, dissemination or other use of, or taking of any action in reliance upon this information is strictly prohibited. If you have received this email in error please notify the sender by reply-email and delete this email and any attachments.
